

RELIEF WORKERS RELATE LIFE IN FOREIGN SERVICE

Teachers, gymnasts to the royal children in the palace at Bucharest, opening a shelter for half frozen and hungry women and girls, travelling in the windowless and hearse-like cars of Romania's crippled train service, running a hotel for business girls who are forced to live on $10 to $15 a month—these are some of the experiences of the Y. W. C. A. workers in Roumania which Isabel Riedel, of the local organization, will tell to the girls of the Robertson department store, who will have a "get together" party at the association rooms tonight.

This is World Fellowship week, and the Y. W. C. A. is selling bricks at 50 cents a piece to pave the road for a secretary in Uruguay, whose expenses are to be paid by the South Bend organization.

Queen Interested.
The work that is being done in Roumania was carried on for the last two years by Miss Willa Haynes and Miss Lillian Jackson, who just returned to America a few days ago and made their report to the Y. W. C. A.

"Queen Marie is much interested in American ideas," Miss Jackson reported. "At our bazaar exhibition of health work, she asked us to start gymnastic classes for the royal children. After a formal notice from the lady in waiting, we called up the marble stairway, a footman pompously carrying our American Indian clubs and basket balls.

"The throne room was turned over to us twice weekly and our balls used to bounce up and off the throne in a most democratic fashion. Yet there were difficulties. The King and Queen would invariably enter when the class were flat on the floor doing mat exercises. Nevertheless, according to court etiquette, they would have to leap up and pay honor."

Tell of Experiences.
The Y. W. C. A. work in Bucharest is the pioneer in organized social service work and is being watched by the ministry of labor, the young women reported. Generous grants have been given for the support of the work.

Incredible tales of hardship were told by both young women in speaking of travelling conditions. When the Germano withdrew, only 14 locomotives were left to begin anew Roumania's train schedules. When the association workers first arrived in Bucharest, trains were so few and far between that women and girls as well as men rode on the tops of the cars. In the bitter cold it was quite a common occurrence to have these unlucky passengers fall on and get killed. The girls opened a shelter at the station, offering hot soup and a warm place to sleep during stop overs. Miss Jackson from Centerville, Iowa and Miss Jackson from Wilmington, Delaware.

Eagles Plan Big Event in Initiation of Class
A membership campaign conducted in honor of Frank E. Hering, Past Grand Whirly President of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, by South Bend Aerie No. 435, will be fully explained to the membership of the local aerie at the regular meeting Wednesday night. Up to the present time, the campaign has netted 261 new applications for membership in the order.

Otto L. Morehouse, vice-president of South Bend Aerie No. 435, has been made executive secretary in charge of the campaign, and a number of prizes have been subscribed for the members who bring in the greatest number of acceptable applications. The chief prize consists of a life membership in South Bend Aerie.

Arrangements have been made to initiate the new applicants at a class initiation to be held Sunday afternoon, November 25. Several prominent Eagles have been invited to attend this large initiation, and have signified their intention of being in this city on that date. Among those who are expected to be present is Ray Brock of Kokomo, president of the state aerie.

In addition to completing plans for the membership drive, a boxing match will be given for the entertainment of those attending Wednesday night's meeting by two local middle-weights both of whom are reputed to have had considerable experience in the squared circle.

Community Center System Here Unique, Clark Says

That South Bend has a unique community center system was disclosed in a report made yesterday by Charles W. Clark, representative of the National Community Service and Playground Association.

"The South Bend system is unique," said Mr. Clark, "in that the centers co-operate with the school board. In other cities separate buildings are used. Another difference lies in the fact that the money for the upkeep of the centers here is appropriated from the taxes whereas the usual system is to have a paid membership."

J. R. Batchelor, field representative of the National Playground Association was in South Bend Tuesday studying the system.

Political Bosses Pick Presidential Prospects for 1924 Election Race

Seventeen Men Loom Up as Possible Timber for Presidential Race as Result of Poll Battle Just Closed; C. O. P. Casts Eyes on Eight Men While Democrats See Hope in Nine Champions

BY PAUL R. MALLON.
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—The open season for 1924 presidential candidates now is on.

As a result of the off-year elections, the political powers that be today saw no less than 17 possible nominees.

This large number of prominent candidates is attributed to the political turmoil which has been stirred up by the various election upheavals.

The elections worked adversely against only one candidate—Sen. Atlee Pomeroy, of Ohio, whose defeat is interpreted by officials in the Democratic party here as lessening his chances of obtaining the nomination.

Those seen by political eyes as in the early running in the Republican race include:

Pres't Harding who may seek reelection.

William S. Kenyon, progressive senatorial leader, now a federal judge in Iowa, because of the strength manifested by progressives in the elections last week.

Sen. Borah, of Idaho, vigorous progressive.

Sen. Johnson, of California, who is believed to have gained additional strength as a result of the progressive election trend.

Sen. Capper, of Kansas, who champions a farm group.

Sen. LaFollette, of Wisconsin, fighting progressive of the senate.

Sec'y of State Charles Evans Hughes, who might continue the policies of the present administration.

Gov. Allen, of Kansas, favored by some business interests.

Smith Heads Democrats.

The Democrats include: Al Smith of New York, because of the strength he displayed in the gubernatorial race in New York.

Gov. Samuel M. Ralston, of Indiana, who is being boomed by Indiana Democrats as a result of the election.

W. G. McAdoo, who might decide to carry on the Wilsonian principles.

Sen. Elihu Root, of New Jersey, who champions the west.

Former Gov. Cox of Ohio who may continue his fight for "world peace" encouraged by the armistice day speech of Woodrow Wilson.

A. Mitchell Palmer, former attorney general who was a candidate in 1920.

Henry Ford.

Lynn Frazier, senator elect from North Dakota, is also being mentioned to lead a farmer-labor ticket.

MOTHER OF TWO KILLS SPOUSE'S FRIEND IN FIGHT

CHICAGO, Nov. 14.—(By I. N. S.)—Mrs. Hattie Stewart, 32, mother of two children, snatched up a revolver and killed Oden Bryant, 42, during a hand-to-hand struggle in her home early today. She told the police Bryant tried to attack her in the absence of her husband, Joseph Stewart. She said Bryant was her husband's friend.

BORAH THREATENS TO START FILIBUSTER

By LAWRENCE MARTIN,
(U. P. Staff Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—Sen. Borah, Idaho, today threatened a filibuster against the administration's ship subsidy bill in the extra session of congress called for Nov. 20.

Any attempt by the administration to enact the ship subsidy bill at the extra session would be a "second attempt at party suicide," Borah warned.

Borah's position will have considerable support from some of the farm bloc and the Democrats.

Enactment of ship subsidy legislation was the main reason for calling congress into special session on Nov. 20, it was said at the White House today in face of threats by Sen. Borah and others to filibuster against the measure.

Pres't Harding, who is just as anxious as ever that the merchant marine program will be speedily enacted, probably will appear before congress personally to urge this legislation. The President hopes that consideration of his ship program will begin as soon as congress convenes and that it will be speedily enacted into law.

New Circuit Court Term to Open Next Monday

Closing sessions of the St. Joseph county Circuit court were held Tuesday and consisted mostly of continuing cases over to the November term of court which begins next Monday.

No changes have been made in the rules of the Circuit court for the coming term, and Nov. 22nd and 23rd are named as days for the hearing of naturalization cases.
